

Showdown on taxes, spending set

Ford challenges solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic-controlled Congress and President Ford appear headed for a politically crucial showdown later this year over Ford's insistence that any tax cut be tied to a ceiling on next year's federal spending.

Both sides see themselves as the political winners.

Democratic strategists say privately they are convinced that they will either get credit for a tax cut or be able to blame Ford for blocking it, while the President contends the voters favor his package proposal.

Ford reiterated his demand for the double-barreled legislative package at a nationally televised and broadcast news conference Thursday night, declaring: "If the Congress plays politics by sending a tax reduction bill to my desk without any responsible restraint on federal spending... I would not hesitate to veto it."

However, two key Democratic leaders said it would be irresponsible for Congress to accept Ford's program.

House Speaker Carl Albert, in a statement issued before Ford spoke, declared it "would be unrealistic and irresponsible" for Congress to enact a spending ceiling before it receives and studies Ford's budget for the year starting next Oct. 1.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said in an interview, "There is no way that this Congress can responsibly make the commitment the President is asking them to make."

"He is asking them to commit themselves to a big spending cut without knowing where the cut is going to come," added the Louisiana Democrat, who heads the Senate's tax-drafting panel.

In a related area, Ford indicated he remains adamantly opposed to federal measures to "bail out" financially-troubled New York City, declaring he has seen nothing so far he could accept.

"I do not think it is a healthy thing for the federal government to bail out a city, and I mean any city, that has handled its fiscal affairs as irresponsibly over a long period of time as New York City has," he said, adding he remains reluctant "to say anything other than 'no' until I see what New York City has done."

On other subjects, Ford said:

—He canceled next Thursday's scheduled trip to Louisville, Ky., for security and other reasons after local officials and the Secret Service warned of massive demonstrations in a city torn by controversy over a school busing plan implemented this fall.

—He has "great faith and trust, and I fully support" his campaign manager, Howard H. "Bo" Callaway, and feels he is developing "a very, very good campaign organization" so that "we are really moving exceedingly well in the nomination process."

—He feels that, as leader of the Republican party, "I have an obligation to try and strengthen and rebuild the Republican party organization in many, many states," which is what he has been doing on many of the trips that will have taken him into all 50 states by the end of the year.

—He disapproves of marijuana smoking but feels it was "a very honorable thing" for his son Jack to admit he has done so "on a very limited basis."

Much of the questioning and Ford's replies on his tax proposal dealt with the congressional opposition to a simultaneous federal spending ceiling.

The President said the American people know that the package proposal "is the right way to meet the problem of getting our long-term reform in tax legislation and to achieve a responsible program in spending limitations."

Israel signs Sinai agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel today signed the final document of the Israeli-Egyptian Sinai accord, just seven hours after the Senate approved a provision of the pact that calls for 200 American technicians to monitor the peace.

Israel's formal approval, which was delayed pending final congressional approval of the monitoring, clears the way for a pullback of Israeli troops in the Sinai Desert and the return of captured Abu Rudeis oilfields to Egypt.

The Senate approved the use of U.S. civilians in the Sinai on a vote of 70 to 18. The House approved the arrangement 341 to 69 on Wednesday.

The civilian technicians will be stationed between Israeli and Egyptian forces in a demilitarized buffer zone.

President Ford, who had sought approval of the peace pact provision last week, was expected to act quickly to establish the small force at electronic monitoring stations in the buffer zone.

Israel's signature came today in Jerusalem. The pact was initiated by Israel and Egypt on Sept. 1. Egypt fully signed the pact on Sept. 22, but Israel refused to sign it until after Congress had acted.

Both Israel and Egypt conditioned their pact on approval by Congress of the use of Americans to monitor surveillance stations in the Sinai passes to give early warning of any military movements to both sides and to the 5,000-man United Nations peacekeeping force stationed there.

Final congressional action also cleared the way for signing of four additional United States agreements, three with Israel and one with Egypt.

They pledge continued U.S. diplomatic efforts to settle Middle East differences.

Subject to congressional appropriations, the United States also promised consideration of stepped up military and economic aid to Israel, economic aid to Egypt and aid to help Israel obtain oil in the event of an Arab boycott after the return of the Abu Rudeis oil field to Egypt.

Senate backers of the Sinai resolution hailed its passage as the opening of the road to peace in the Middle East.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., was among those with misgivings about the first direct American involvement in the Middle East.

Mansfield said it increases chances for U.S. involvement in Middle East fighting, should it occur again, and the danger of confrontation with the Soviet Union.

He said he saw "ominous parallels" between the Sinai resolution and the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution which led to U.S. participation in the Vietnam war.

The Sinai resolution requires that the American technicians be withdrawn immediately if hostilities break out again between Israel and Egypt or if Congress determines that their safety is jeopardized.

It also disclaims giving the President any additional authority to introduce armed forces of the United States into Middle East hostilities.

House okays extension of U.S. coastal limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — For years, increasingly efficient foreign fishing fleets have scoured the waters off the U.S. coast for nearly every type of fish, sometimes moving so close to shore that they had to be shooed back by Coast Guard cutters.

As a result, the House rejected Ford administration arguments and gave approval Thursday to a measure that would ban foreign fishing within 200 miles of the U.S. coastline. Since 1966, the United States has claimed a 12-mile fishing limit.

Supporters of the bill, which was approved 208 to 101, say the expanded limit will conserve fish stocks and protect U.S. fishermen against the super-efficient operations of trawlers chiefly from Japan and Soviet bloc countries.

The 200-mile limit has widespread support in the Senate, where the Commerce Committee has approved a similar bill. The Senate has approved similar measures in past sessions of Congress.

President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had opposed the unilateral extension to 200 miles, pushing instead for an United Nations treaty on fisheries.

Opponents also said the limit would provoke retaliation against long-distance U.S. fishermen.

Backers of the limit said two U.N. conferences have failed to even approach agreement on fishing limits.

Rep. Joel Pritchard, R-Wash., said if the Congress did not act soon, "this bill won't have anything to protect."

Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., said foreign fishermen in only a decade had swept up so many fish in their fine-mesh nets off the New England coast that some species were commercially extinct. Soviet-bloc fishing fleets are accompanied by "factory" ships that process the catch the same day it is netted.

Nixon takes to golf course with Teamsters president

LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — "It looked like the old Nixon," declared an eyewitness after former President Richard Nixon swung into rare public view for a charity golf game with Teamster chief Frank Fitzsimmons.

Nixon took full cuts at the ball and strode without a limp as he spent five hours Thursday on the 18-hole La Costa golf course on the Teamster-owned resort 30 miles south of his San Clemente estate.

"The first thing I noticed was that his eyebrows are turning gray," one spectator said.

The event was a fund-raiser for the Little City for Retarded Children of Palatine, Ill. Nixon gave a brief talk to about 50 amateur golfers at the event — stressing a need for citizens to help the retarded children's cause.

"You won't believe this but his thoughts were of the shots he should have made and the putts he missed," said Robert Dachman of Chicago, director of the tournament.

"He was in a good mood," said one of the photographers present. "He smiled a lot and he was talking all the time. He would talk to anybody who would come near him. He was very personal with people. He put his arm around people."

However, at one point Fitzsimmons — whose union had endorsed Nixon's successful reelection bid — strode over to the Secret Service and asked them to escort the press off the course. A longtime aide, Marine Col. Jack Brennan, accompanied Nixon.

Nixon greeted a question on his health with a simple answer, "Fine." His face had normal color, neither pale nor tanned. A heavier appearance around the waistline contrasted with his thinness when he left a Long Beach hospital about a year ago after nearly dying from phlebitis of the leg.

It marked perhaps Nixon's longest public appearance since he resigned as president in August of 1974 in the Watergate scandal.

"It looked like the old Nixon," declared Dachman. "He walked like a typical golfer — when he made a good shot he walked proudly, and when he made a bad shot he kind of hunched over. He looked great and he shot fairly well — a 92."

Golfing with Nixon and Fitzsimmons were Teamster Secretary-Treasurer Murry Miller, Teamster International Vice President Joseph Trerotola and John Murphy, president of the board of Gateway Transportation Co. of La Crosse, Wis.

conflict, witnesses have reported increasing evidence of guerrilla units fighting alongside Moslems and leftists against the Christians.

This apparently prompted Karami's trip to Damascus.

"I admit that the number of armed men, the quality of their weapons and the exhaustion of the security forces lessened their ability to carry out the duties required of them," Karami said.

But he made it clear that he still opposed intervention by Lebanon's 18,000-man army while Arafat "does his best" to restore law and order in Beirut, Tripoli and other flashpoints.

"I stick to the opinion that in a crisis such as this one, if there is no consent from all sides, calling in the army could lead to more crises and complications," he added, referring to Moslem charges that the army command is pro-Christian.

A ONE-YEAR course designed to assist farmers with planning and recordkeeping for their businesses will begin this fall at the north campus of Southern State College in Wilmington.

The non-credit course is offered through Southern State's continuing education department. It is designed to serve farm couples in Adams, Brown, Highland, Clinton, Payette and Warren counties with the vital practices of recordkeeping and analyzing the financial aspects of their farm operations.

The course will be taught by James Hanna, instructor of agriculture of Southern State College. Hanna received a bachelor of science degree from Ohio State University where he majored in agricultural economics and farm management. He worked as an assistant foreman for a 2,500-acre farm before joining the Southern State faculty.

Persons who take the course will study all aspects of farm business planning, analysis, recordkeeping and reorganization in a series of classroom sessions that will cover about 12 weeks, ending in January. The course will begin in early November. Topics to be covered include depreciation of equipment, taxation, maintaining inventory and complete recordkeeping.

In addition, Hanna will make regular visits to the farm of each student to help with individual recordkeeping and management problems.

Tuition for the course is $50. Couples may enroll for one tuition price. Hanna said there are many situations where the farmer's wife does the bookkeeping, and therefore it is important that she also have a good understanding of planning and recording techniques. Students who complete the first year of the course may enroll in a second year of more advanced instruction in farm business and planning analysis.

Classes will meet in Hancock Hall from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. The starting date and schedule of classes will be announced soon.

PROPOSED TAX CUT — Chart shows how much a wage earner would save if the tax cuts proposed by President Ford are adopted by Congress. The cuts, amounting to $28 billion would be put into effect only if Congress agrees to cut federal spending. The chart is for a family with two dependents.

President submits measure on energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford sent to Congress today a proposal for a $100 billion government corporation to help finance energy projects that Ford said could replace 10 to 15 million barrels of imported oil daily by 1985.

Sent to the House and Senate was a 54-page draft bill to establish an Energy Independence Authority EIA that would be designed to help pay for projects beyond the scope of private efforts.

The President unveiled his controversial plan in broad outline in a speech last month in San Francisco. The legislation spells out the fine print of the proposal, which has been pushed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller despite reservations by some administration officials.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen's office distributed a fact sheet to go with the legislation that said:

"The $100 billion for energy projects could help assure that the equivalent of up to 10-15 million barrels of oil per day of new energy production is realized by 1985."

Under the legislation, EIA would support only those projects that would "contribute directly and significantly to energy independence" and projects "that would not be financed without government assistance."

To be headed by a five-member board of directors, appointed by the President and subject to Senate confirmation, EIA would sell $25 billion of capital stock to the Treasury and raise the remaining $75 billion in normal capital markets through the issuance of notes, debentures and bonds.

In a letter of transmittal to Congress, Ford said capital requirements for energy projects would total about $600 billion over the next 10 years.

Congress has shown little enthusiasm for the idea. And Ford conceded at a news conference Thursday night that Treasury Secretary William E. Simon has expressed private reservations about some features of the program.

To his San Francisco audience, Ford tried to sell the proposal as a job-creating plan as well as a means of lessening the nation's dependence on foreign energy suppliers.

The President said $600 billion would have to be invested in energy projects during the next decade and said the proposed agency "would act to finance those projects vitally needed for America's energy independence that will not be financed even by America's great private capital resources."

The President argued that the nation could not wait for emerging new technologies in the energy field to attract private investment capital.

Woman wins $300,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — Shirley A. Beaver of Newport doesn't have to worry anymore about being laid off from work. She's won $300,000 to carry her over.

Mrs. Beaver, 38, won the top prize in Thursday night's Ohio Lottery drawing.

She said she was laid off her job as a punch press operator in February. She worked as a hairdresser before that.

Mrs. Beaver said she will spend some of her winnings to send her nephew to college.

Lottery spokesmen said the $300,000 winner was Marvin F. Oberhaus of Jewell.

Winners of the $15,000 prizes were Elizabeth M. Clements, Cincinnati; Marcha J. Alford, Dayton; Frank J. Miller, Mansfield and James E. Norris and Vivian Martin, both of Cincinnati who signed one ticket.

The winning single number was 874 and the double was 029-075. In the Lucky Buck game, the three-digit number was 738 and the six-digit number was 151633.

Lebanese cease-fire uneasy

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Street fighting between Lebanese Christians and Moslems abated at dawn today under a Syrian-sponsored cease-fire personally supervised by Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat.

Premier Rashid Karami did not announce what new security measures were agreed to by himself, Arafat and Syrian President Hafez Assad. But he returned from Damascus Thursday saying "the worst is over."

Beirut radio announced there were "no serious incidents since 6 a.m. But most approaches to the city are still dangerous due to the presence of armed men."

Roads around the northern city of Tripoli also were reported closed by armed men manning barricades, following repeated clashes between Moslems and Christians in neighboring hill villages.

Lebanon's civil strife stems from efforts by Moslems, their numbers swelled by Palestinian guerrillas whom they support, to gain more political power from the Christian establishment and a leftist struggle for a better economic deal for the country's mostly Moslem lower class.

Palestinian sources said the Syrian-backed guerrilla group Saiga would play a larger role in helping Lebanese security men enforce the cease-fire in Moslem areas, under the personal supervision of Arafat.

In Christian areas, the security forces will be assisted by right-wing militiamen of the Phalange party and Interior Minister Camille Chamoun's National Liberal party.

Similar cease-fires have failed in the past, with both sides accusing the other of resuming hostilities. Although major Palestinian guerrilla groups have professed neutrality in the Lebanese

Sakharov accepts Nobel Prize

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says concern for his safety and the safety of others forced cancellation of a scheduled trip to Louisville, but Kentucky's governor says the only thing the President had to fear was political embarrassment.

Ford's announcement at a Thursday night news conference that he would not attend a Republican fund-raising dinner in Louisville next week marked the first time that "security reasons" officially had been cited for cancellation of one of his many trips.

However, other aspects of Ford's security arrangements have been tightened since two alleged attempts on his life in California last month.

Taking issue with Ford, Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll, a Democrat, said Ford's decision to avoid the Louisville trip was based on the fear of political embarrassment over the issue of school busing and over identification with a local Republican candidate who Carroll said was going to lose.

Today, Ford is scheduled to meet with Norway's King Olav V and with Portuguese Foreign Minister Melo Antunes before flying to Detroit for a regionally broadcast news conference and a GOP fund-raising dinner.

At his news conference, Ford noted that "there has been some turmoil in Louisville as a result of court-ordered, forced busing to achieve racial balance in the public schools," adding that "I was advised by local officials as well as others that under the current circumstances I should cancel the trip to Louisville."

The Secret Service said it had advised that large-scale, antibusing demonstrations were likely in Louisville in connection with Ford's visit, and a Louisville police spokesman said, "It was agreed it could be a potentially dangerous situation."

More than 500 persons were arrested and some 200 were injured in an outbreak of violence after Louisville schools opened last month.

The President said that despite his decision to cancel the Louisville trip, that does not affect "my decision to travel where I think it is the right thing to do, bearing in mind any security problems that might be raised."

Carroll said Kentucky was "politically unsafe" for Ford, but that "as far as his personal security is concerned, the people of Louisville and Kentucky have shown the respect due the President of the United States."

Carroll said he believed Ford canceled the trip because "he has suffered one recent setback campaigning for a Republican loser in New Hampshire. A second Republican flop within such a short time would certainly spell serious political trouble for the President in his own reelection bid."

Ford had planned to attend the fund-raiser to help the campaign of Kentucky Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Gable.

A low pressure area has weakened and moved northeastward out of Ohio, bringing an end to light rainfall reported Thursday over much of the state. Highs Thursday ranged from 56 at Findlay to 77 at Ironton. Lows this morning were in the 50s and 60s.

Cloudy skies and fog today were to clear gradually as high pressure builds over the state. Mostly clear skies will prevail tonight and Saturday. Highs today were to be in the 60s northeast to the 70s southwest. Lows tonight will be in the 40s. Highs Saturday will be in the 60s and low 70s.

Fair Sunday and Monday, a chance of showers Tuesday. Highs in the 60s and low 70s. Lows in the 40s.

Wet and windy weather prevalent

By The Associated Press

Wet and windy weather covers much of the western United States today, as a cold front moves through the far western states and a deep low sits off the north Pacific coast.

Rain was falling from Washington south to central California and east to western Idaho and western Nevada, with snow in some of the higher elevations of the Sierras. Travelers advisories were posted through today for the Sierras and the mountains of northern California, including the Lake Tahoe basin.

Winds gusting to more than 40 miles an hour added to the hazardous traveling conditions, and gale warnings were in effect along the northern and central Pacific coast.

Meanwhile, a storm that gave up to five inches of snow to North Dakota Thursday had weakened and moved into Canada. However, some clouds lingered from the extreme northern Plains into the northern Great Lakes region, along with a little rain in northeast Minnesota.

Clouds reached from the eastern Great Lakes region to the northern and middle Atlantic coast, with the exception of New England. Some rain and drizzle continued to dampen parts of Maryland and Pennsylvania.

A few isolated thundershowers developed Thursday night in the southern portions of Illinois and Indiana, in the southeast parts of Kansas and Missouri, and in southern Florida. Fair weather prevailed elsewhere from the south Atlantic coast into the central and southern Plains and southern Rockies.

Repair gyp reported

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The practice of fire-chasing, or attempts to contract homeowners for repairs after fires, has been criticized in a report by the state Department of Commerce.

Consumers could be misled into believing they are contracting for temporary repairs, such as boarding up windows, until a homeowner can arrange for permanent repairs, the department said in a Consumer Protection Bulletin.

The deception occurs, the advisory said, because consumers are actually signing for permanent repairs, and signing away to fire chasers any money an insurance firm will pay for fire damage.

Salesmen may persuade consumers to sign away their right to a three-day "cooling-off period" during which they can cancel a contract, by having them write and sign an emergency waiver, the advisory said.

According to the department, fire chasers try to make money two ways: by trying to get more money (than a consumer) from an insurance firm, and by using as little as possible from insurance money in making repairs, which often means shoddy materials and workmanship.

The department advises against signing anything while a house is still burning and the homeowner is under stress, adding that consumers should seek advice from their own insurance agents as soon as possible.

Stock list up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced slightly today, encouraged by a new drop in some key short-term interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.18 at 825.72, and gainers held a narrow lead over losers in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index edged up .02 to 84.34. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks picked up .14 to 46.86.

The decline in money rates was ascribed to hopes that the Federal Reserve might move toward a more stimulative credit policy. That view gained momentum with weekly Fed statistics issued after Thursday's close, which showed that the money supply had grown at only a 1.6 per cent annual rate over the last three months—considerably below the Fed's target of 5 to 7 1/2 per cent.

Hearst trial deadline seen Dec. 27

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst could be released from jail if her bank robbery trial does not start by Dec. 27, but the government will make every effort to meet that deadline, says the federal prosecutor.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning conceded Thursday that if no bail is set and the trial is delayed beyond that date, the newspaper heiress "conceivably" could be released on her recognizance under the amended Speedy Trial Act of 1974.

Miss Hearst is being held without bail at the San Mateo County jail in nearby Redwood City.

Meanwhile, Miss Hearst's defense team continues to focus its efforts on her mental competence.

Miss Hearst's lawyers won court consent Thursday for a physician to check her for possible physical problems. But they withdrew a request to have her examined by a psychiatrist chosen by them in addition to the court-appointed panel that has been testing her.

Lawyer Albert Johnson, a member of the defense team, said in an interview published Thursday that he was spending "100 per cent" of his time trying to get Miss Hearst committed to a hospital for a psychiatric care. He said her thoughts seem disconnected.

Johnson said he hoped his client could stand trial at some point, but he added that there are some cases where a defendant's mental state prevents them from ever standing trial.

Kissinger under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. James V. Stanton predicted Thursday that a House committee will issue a report critical of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's handling of certain negotiations abroad.

The Cleveland Democrat said a report by the House Select Intelligence Committee will reveal instances "where the secretary either misled or totally deceived Congress."

Stanton told the Cleveland Plain Dealer that Kissinger had refused to be specific about negotiations involving Vietnam and Cyprus, but he refused to be specific about other accusations against the secretary.

"I find that case after case in examining the foreign policy of this administration through the intelligence community that he is less than candid and in many instances almost dishonest with Congress," Stanton said.

Stanton said he thought the committee had uncovered incidents that supposedly show that "Kissinger would have been much better working as a prime minister in a monarchy rather than in a democracy."

Opinion And Comment

Curiouser and curiouser

The case of Sara Jane Moore, who took a shot at President Ford in San Francisco, grows curiouser and curiouser. The latest bit added to the puzzle - this bit revealed by top Secret Service agents in testimony before a Senate subcommittee - is that only hours prior to the shooting the woman made five attempts to reach Secret Service agents and other authorities by telephone.

It seems, however, that the Secret Service agents guarding the President were not made privy to this information. They did not find out until after the shooting incident that she had sought to make contact with law enforcement people on that very day - and after having been questioned the previous day following confiscation of a gun she was carrying.

Secret Service Director H. Stuart Knight has said he finds no fault in the decision of an agent to release Mrs. Moore after that questioning.

Knight even added, "It probably would have been the same if he interviewed her the next morning." Whether or not this is merely a case of an agency head protecting his people in the field, it all sounds odd to the layman.

For what we now know makes it hard to accept a judgment that this was a woman not worth watching during the President's visit. She had talked to a police inspector in such a vein that he later told the Secret Service they "might have another Squeaky Fromme" on their hands. She was stopped on the street, the day before the shooting, had a gun seized by police, later that day was questioned by the Secret Service; the following day bought another gun after making what seems in retrospect like an attempt to alert authorities to her homicidal impulse.

It may be unfair to suggest that somewhere along the line the Secret Service should have tumbled to the idea that Sara Jane Moore certainly would bear watching while the President was in San Francisco. The supposed "profile" of a potential presidential assailant is notoriously ineffective. Nor have the lists of those regarded as possible threats been of much help: none of the assassins or attempted assassins of public figures in recent times, from Lee Harvey Oswald to Arthur Bremer, appealed on these lists.

The inescapable conclusion, which surely will be reached by the Senate investigating subcommittee, is that Secret Service procedures need improvement. Predicting crime is a very chancy business at best; no very great degree of success at singling out likely presidential attackers can be expected. The Moore case does shed light on some flaws in the system which might be remedied.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . By John P. Roche

The bad old days

One of the great aggravations of a historian's life is the number of people he encounters who think history began the day they were born. The variation on this theme which really puts me up the wall is the myth of the Golden Age when, allegedly, Americans were nonviolent, our jails were comfortable, whites loved blacks, and everybody believed in free speech. This vision is seldom set forth explicitly, but it is the unarticulated premise of all the flagellants who, when a President is shot or shot at, announce that we are all depraved, that our old values are gone, that we should seek collective atonement for our wicked ways.

Lord knows, I have sinned, but there is one thing I won't do: seek absolution for sins uncommitted. I did not shoot John Kennedy, Robert Kennedy, Martin Luther King, George Wallace or anybody else. Nor do I believe in collective guilt: "American society" did not try to shoot President Ford. When told that the Vietnam war generated a climate of violence, I point out that some 12 million of us, trained to kill people, came back from World War II without noticeable homicidal tendencies.

However, this is wandering from the main point, the historical role of violence in American society. Suppose you opened your morning paper to see a headline: "RIOT CONTINUES IN NEW YORK - 11,000 DEAD," with a subhead: "President Orders Troops and Martial Law." Would you feel a bit uneasy about life in these United States? Yet in population terms the equivalent number of New Yorkers were killed in the 1863 Draft Riot. Again in proportion to population, the United States, North and South, had greater casualties in the Civil War than Britain or France did in World War I.

Remember the grand old American custom of lynching? Probably not; it's one of those things best forgotten. According to official estimates, between 1900 and 1920 - hardly the Middle Ages - 1,412 Negroes were murdered in this manner. And this total does not include victims of the savage race riots that swept a number of major cities in the "hot summer" of 1919. Unlike the riots in the 1960s, which featured a lot of property damage, 1919 saw racial warfare involving both property and lives: the 13-day riot in Chicago left 38 dead, 537 injured, and over a thousand families homeless. Needless to say, those affected were overwhelmingly black.

Curiously our contemporary passion for statistics has contributed to the myth of the Golden Age. When you look at the figures for felonies, it's hard not to be overcome by the feeling we are on the greased chute to collective perdition. Here the problem is that in many jurisdictions nobody bothered to keep the statistics for the Good Old Days. (The same is true of drug addiction; there is reason to believe more Americans per thousand were hooked in 1910 than in 1970.)

As far as juvenile delinquency is concerned, the great development in my lifetime has been the right to become a statistic. When I was a kid, the cops rarely booked a juvenile for anything less than a felony. They just beat hell out of him and sent him home to meditate on the evils of sin. Now when a juvenile is brought in, he is greeted by a social worker, the clergyman of his choice, and a statistician. The leading offense, grand theft auto, is a modern development - I never knew anybody who was arrested for hopping a ride on the back of a trolley car (the motorman didn't bother you. He knew if he did, you would disconnect the trolley from the overhead electric line and run).

Politics too was plenty rough. In 1855, for example, Tennessee Governor Andrew Johnson (later President) was in a savage campaign against a Know-Nothing, the militantly anti-Catholic party. He was told that if he went to a meeting he would be killed. Johnson walked to the podium, put a cocked pistol on it, and observed, "I have been informed that part of the business to be transacted (here) is my assassination and . . . propose that this be the first business in order. If any man has come for that purpose, let him shoot." This episode stands out for its dramatic quality, but was not all that distinctive. Maybe you want to join some of my journalistic brethren in a trip to the past, but I'll settle for 1975.

The museum of No. 1 House at Zoar in Tuscarawas County, Ohio, contains arts and crafts of a group of German religious refugees known as Separatists who established a communal settlement there in 1817.

Ohio Perspective

Nursing study wins praise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Health Director John H. Ackerman has praised a study and report on the nursing profession that would have nurses on duty around the clock in nursing homes and mental institutions by 1980.

The director also said he agreed with recommendations that would require continuing education for registered and practical nurses by the same year, and boost nursing educational programs generally to give their graduates a greater role in Ohio's health care services.

Ackerman said the recommendations, which came after a two-year study by the Ohio Nursing Commission, are timely "because health care services are of critical interest to our citizens today."

The commission, headed by Dr. Kenneth Haygood of Cleveland, now is having its final report printed and expects to begin working toward implementation of proposed changes in December. Some of the recommendations will require legislative action.

The 102-page report said in part, with regard to nursing homes and mental institutions, that individual nurses and nurses' organizations should support federal legislation requiring 24-hour staffing in health care centers participating in Medicaid and Medicare.

It also called for them to support the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation "in achieving its goals of making professional services available to patients in state hospitals and of making salaries and working conditions more attractive."

Among other things, the commission recommended increasing the number of nursing specialists—teachers, administrators, and clinical specialists—from 1,100 to 3,000 by 1985. The existing supply of 67,000 registered nurses and 24,000 licensed practical nurses may have to be boosted to nearly 100,000 by 1985, the report suggested.

The commission said existing scattered types of nursing schools among Ohio's 112 teaching institutions be reduced to two with one stressing leadership programs as well as general instruction.

Other recommendations include:

—Creation of a joint physician-nurse practice committee to clarify the roles of each in providing health care services.

—Establishing programs that will have nurses taking a bigger part in preventive medicine—such as early screening for cancer, diabetes, and similar diseases.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Gals forced to do 'look-busy' work

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is probably a common one, but I haven't yet seen a solution to it in your column, so I thought I'd write.

There are four girls in our office. (It's an insurance agency.) At times we are very busy, but there are times when there is absolutely nothing to do. In the past, when we had nothing else to do, we just sat around and talked, did needlework or read magazines—anything to keep from pulling our hair out from sheer boredom.

Now our bosses have instructed us to "look" busy with "insurance business", even though we aren't. In other words, we have to be typing something—even if it's personal correspondence. We can't read books or magazines, do needlepoint or manicure our nails.

I know this doesn't make a bit of sense, but those are our orders. Do you have any suggestions about how we can make our bosses see how ridiculous their orders are?

BORED FOURSOME

DEAR BORED: Better follow instructions or else your bosses might wise up to the probable fact that they've got more help than they really need.

DEAR ABBY: Add this tone to your list of how a husband can tell if his wife is fooling around: if she suddenly starts to get pedicures and shaves her legs every day.

CAUGHT ON IN COLORADO
DEAR CAUGHT ON: And here's another tip for the wives on how to tell if hubby is fooling around: If he starts shaving twice a day and suddenly makes constant use of those breath sweeteners. Also, if he "loses" more than two handkerchiefs a week, follow him!

DEAR ABBY: I own a nice little two-bedroom cottage, which I advertised for rent. A nice-looking young fellow answered the ad, saying he planned to be married soon. He liked the house and said he wanted his fiancée to look at it. (She lived in another town.) She arrived the next day, saw the house and liked it, and he signed a year's lease.

The next day, they bought some furniture and moved right in—together! Abby, they've been living there in my house for two months now, just like husband and wife, I presume.

This is a small town and I have my reputation to think of. I go to church and am an Eastern Star, and I don't approve of couples living together before marriage.

Yesterday, I asked her if they had set their wedding date, and she said, "Not yet."

What do I tell the neighbors when they ask me who the new couple is? And should I tell this young man and his fiancée that if they don't get married, they'll have to move?

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD: You'd better not tell them to move until you know what the law (and their lease) reads. There ARE two bedrooms in the house, so long as they pay the rent on time, don't damage the property and don't disturb the neighbors, how can their personal sleeping arrangements harm you or anyone else?

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, Oct. 10, the 283rd day of 1975. There are 82 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1911, Chinese revolutionaries under Dr. Sun Yat-sen overthrew the Manchu Dynasty in China.

On this date:
In 1680, the grandson of Mohammed was murdered in Iraq.

In 1845, the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. was opened.

In 1913, the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans flowed together in the Panama Canal as the Balboa dam was blown up.

In 1938, Nazi Germany completed the occupation of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

In 1963, an 873-foot-high dam collapsed near Belluno, Italy, and a flood killed an estimated 1,800 persons.

In 1973, Spiro Agnew resigned as Vice President under an agreement with the Justice Department to admit evasion of federal income taxes but avoid imprisonment.

Ten years ago: The fighting in South Vietnam was rapidly gaining momentum, and a force of 10,000 South Vietnamese troops launched a drive against its enemies in Bindinh Province.

Five years ago: Two masked men armed with sub-machine guns kidnapped Quebec's Minister of Labor and Immigration, Pierre Laporte, from his front yard.

One year ago: Harold Wilson's Liberal Party won a narrow majority in Britain's House of Commons in a national election.

Today's birthdays: Actress Helen Hayes is 75 years old. Pianist and composer Theonious Monk is 57.

Thought for today: To err is human, but to admit it is not — anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the British general who had helped precipitate the Battles of Lexington and Bunker Hill, Thomas Gage, sailed from Boston for home.

50-year members of congregation

First Presbyterian honors elderly

First Presbyterian Church has honored all members of the congregation who have been a part of the church family for 50 years or more. There are 62 persons who joined the church during or before 1925. One of them, Miss Etha Sturgeon, has been a church member since 1900.

All of the 50-year members who attended the Sept. 28 worship service were presented red carnations, and a group picture was taken afterwards.

Church rips data on values

NEW YORK (AP) — Under pressure of the U.S. Roman Catholic bishops, the main national organization of Catholic lay members has halted distribution of a study booklet critical of American values, the government and the Church.

But the decision has stirred controversy, and William H. Sandweg, a Washington, D.C., attorney and president of the National Council of Catholic Men, expressed hope it would be reversed.

"There needs to be some rethinking about it," he said. "We reacted as children do to authority and simply capitulated without being given specific reasons for it and without being heard ourselves."

He said the adult educational booklet, "A Question of Values," deliberately raises questions about conditions in Church and society, and that critical thinking about these matters was necessary and healthy.

The booklet was issued last January by the National Council of Catholic Laity, a merged umbrella group including national lay organizations both of Catholic men and women, in a project funded at $20,000.

But after the bishops' administrative board, at its spring meeting, objected to the booklet, the 24-member board of the lay organization decided in a split vote to withdraw it.

J. OSCAR WELLS

Communism to be topic

Evangelist J. Oscar Wells will conduct a series of services at Immanuel Baptist Church Oct. 12-19. A well-known missionary, Mr. Wells spent several years on mainland China during the communist revolution. He and his family spent 26 months in a Japanese concentration camp in China during the 1940s.

He will speak at both local high schools and will address a men's breakfast in addition to the series of worship services. His topic will be "Communism."

The church services will be held at 7:30 p.m. nightly beginning Sunday. The program will include special singing, and nursery service will be provided.

B'burg Methodist women install new officers for year

Mrs. Harold Messmer conducted an inspiring installation service for new officers of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Women when they met in the home of Mrs. Willard Bitzer this week.

Installed were President - Mrs. Eli Craig; vice president - Mrs. Malcolm Bloomer; secretary - Mrs. Robert Huff; assistant - Mrs. Charlie Hughes; treasurer - Mrs. Lawrence Garinger; and committees Missions coordinator and Christian personhood - Mrs. Donald Denen; supportive community - Mrs. John Gibaut; Christian social involvement - Mrs. William Rockhold; Christian global concern - Mrs. Charles Cunningham; secretary of program resources - Mrs. Fred Oswald; and historian - Miss Florence Purcell.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Donald Mossbarger and Mrs. Lucy Randolph. Fourteen members and one guest, Mrs. Dorothy Delph of Grove City, were present for the meeting which was conducted by Mrs. Craig. She read the poem, "Catching Up Time."

It was announced that at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 22, the Rev. M.J.C. Koomson of Ghana, Africa, will be guest speaker at the Bloomingburg Methodist Church.

Plans for the annual bazaar planned for beginning at 10 a.m. Nov. 8 at the church were made, and also for the luncheon which will be served at noon. The ladies of the church have completed a handsome quilt, which they quilted in three weeks, for the bazaar. The committee served refreshments.

Deer circle has 'outing'

Mrs. Sam Marting was hostess to Deer Circle No. 4 of Grace United Methodist Church when the group met at the Marting Lodge Wednesday noon for a carry-in luncheon and meeting.

Mrs. Henry Simmons, a guest, gave the invocation and Mrs. Heber Deer, president, conducted the business, read minutes and correspondence. Members answered roll call by reporting the number of calls made to shutins, which totaled 57. Mrs. Maurice Sollars gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Marilyn Riley presented the life of Abigail, the wife of David.

Miss Forman LCW speaker

Miss Elsie Forman, former Fayette County school teacher and recent around-the-world traveler, spoke Tuesday evening for the Lutheran Church Women's general meeting held at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church.

Miss Forman, introduced by Mrs. Earl Hartley, related the experience of three women in particular whose work was outstanding in Taiwan, Nepal and India. These women are "Typhoon" Lillian Dixon, Dr. Angela Fleming and Prime Minister Gandhi. Her talk was interesting, informative and enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Ora Burdge, LCW president, presided during the brief business session when new officers for 1976 were elected. They are: President, Mrs. Robert A. Smith; vice president, Mrs. Stanley Graumlich; secretary, Mrs. Ralph Gebhart; and treasurer, Mrs. Eldon Kirk. Functional chairman are: Christian Action, Mrs. James Puckett; Outreach and Fellowship, Mrs. Roger Miller; Faith and Life, Mrs. Jack Sommers; and Worship and Music, Mrs. Ned Wolfe.

The Naomi Circle served refreshments to Miss Forman, Mrs. Cora Fennig, Mrs. Ted Anderson, Mrs. James Carter, Mrs. Puckett, Mrs. Hartley, Mrs. Graumlich, Mr. Sonny Graumlich, Mrs. Harold Shank, Mrs. Paul Murphy, Mrs. Burdge, Mrs. Sommers, Mrs. Mary Wagner, Mrs. William Golay and Mrs. Hilbert Meyer. They request no gifts.

CLEANABILITY CODE
A cleanability code - which will give the consumer information as to the proper cleaning method appropriate for a particular type of fabric - may be found on the tag under the seat cushion - or the furniture salesman should be able to give you this information.

The code has been endorsed by such national furniture cleaning organizations as Duraclean International and Service Master and should be called to their attention when professional cleaning is required.

CODE METHOD
W Use only the foam from a WATER-based cleaning agent. Put 2 tablespoons of a mild dishwashing detergent such as Ivory Liquid in a blender with 1/2 cup of water or mix in a bowl with an egg beater to achieve maximum foam. Apply this dry foam with a sponge or soft bristle brush over a larger area than that which has been soiled to avoid leaving rings. Professional cleaning is recommended.

S Use a mild, water-free SOLVENT dry cleaning product such as engine, Carbona or Renzuit. Follow the instructions carefully. Keep the room well ventilated. Clean as large an area as possible around the soiled section to avoid leaving rings. Do not use any products containing carbon tetrachloride as it is highly toxic.

WS EITHER of the above methods can be used.

X NEITHER of the above methods should be used. A fabric coded X should only be vacuumed or brushed lightly to remove soil. Do not use liquid cleaning agents of any type.

ROUTINE MAINTENANCE
Sensible care of your furniture fabrics will help make your furniture look better and last longer.

Brush or vacuum your upholstery regularly, so dust and soil do not get into the fibers.

When cleaning upholstery fabric with a shampoo or solvent, pre-test it first in an inconspicuous spot, checking for discoloration, shrinkage or other surface change. Use cleaning agents sparingly, with minimum wetting of the fabric. After cleaning, remove residual soaps by wiping the entire surface with a clean cloth dampened with water.

Do not remove zippered cushion covers. Separate cleaning and washing may result in shrinkage, change in color and destruction of the backing. Do, however, reverse your cushion regularly to keep them in better shape and to distribute wear evenly.

SPECIAL VELVET CONSIDERATIONS

For cleaning stains on velvet fabrics, try a household solvent first. Only if that is not successful should you use a water-detergent solution, and then with minimum wetting. Most velvets have been rated "X" by manufacturers, meaning neither solvent nor water spot cleaning has been recommended. It is only in the past year that a special fluorochemical finish has been available on velvet furniture fabrics. The finish has raised the industry rating from "X" to "S" for solvent cleanable.

SOIL REPELLENT FINISH
The label will also tell you if the fabric has a soil repellent finish, such as Zezel or Scotchgard. These finishes repel water and oil-foreign soil, but they don't soil-proof a fabric. The finish simply helps you combat stains more easily. Any soil or spot should be removed as soon as possible.

The wearing quality of an upholstery fabric depends mainly on three things - the tightness of the weave, the fiber content and the care you give fabric.

Society plans annual bazaar

The Buena Vista Ladies Aid Society met in the Buena Vista Township Hall for the regular carry-in luncheon. Mrs. Bina O. Rude gave the invocation and a social hour followed.

Mrs. Eddie Corzatt presented the poem "Productive Gardens" and Mrs. Hazel Anders read Psalm 119, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Members answered roll call by naming a Halloween treat.

Activities announced were 14 cards,

Zeta Upsilon

Mrs. Rick Kelley entertained members of Zeta Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in her home. Mrs. Roger Pemberton, president, read correspondence regarding various topics, and it was announced that the residents of the Fayette County Home appreciated the picnic given for them last Saturday. The chapter members are invited to the Home Oct. 19 for "Open House."

Plans for the husband's social and the next Pledge Ritual and Ritual of Jewels were discussed, and also projects of the ways and means committee.

Present were Mrs. Fred Conley, Mrs. Roger Snyder, Mrs. Pemberton, Mrs. Jim Coldiron, Mrs. Debbie Hyer, Mrs. Rick Kelley, Mrs. David McKee and Mrs. Don Jones.

Mrs. Perrill class hostess

Mrs. Howard Perrill was hostess when the Leadership Training Class of First Presbyterian Church met in her home for the October meeting.

Mrs. Lolita Douds presented devotions and read the translation of the Japanese version of The Twenty-Third Psalm, then closed with prayer.

Mrs. Ronald Cornwell welcomed Mrs. Florence Cook as a guest, and the service committee presented a project for Thanksgiving and Christmas-that of helping some elderly folk with food for the two holidays.

The meeting was closed with the Friendship Circle and the Benediction. A social hour followed when Mrs. Donald Wood and Mrs. Perrill served refreshments.

Progress Club meeting topic 'Will Rogers'

Mrs. John Sheeley, president of the Progress Club, welcomed 16 members and one guest, Mrs. Darlene Wagner, to the first meeting of the 1975-76 year. She opened the meeting by reading "Autumn" by Longfellow.

After Miss Helen Fuels gave the secretary's report, Mrs. Grace Lanum gave the treasurer's report, then all answered roll call by using one of Will Rogers' quotes. The subject for the night was on "Will Rogers" presented by Mrs. Otto Fent.

Mrs. Fent stated that Rogers always had a wad of gum in his jaw and a rope in his hand-a rope which he began swinging the lariat at a very early age. Swinging the lariat on farms caused him to lose many jobs.

From ranch to ranch and roundup to roundup he worked when and as long as he could. When he inherited his father's ranch, he 'fiddled and danced' more than he worked.

Later, he became an acotor in vaudeville, including the Ziegfield Folies, performed for presidents, made movies, wrote articles for newspapers all over the United States and for the Saturday Evening Post. While on a trip to Alaska with Wiley Post, he was killed in a plane crash, leaving behind many fond memories of a man who brought smiles to many faces all over the world.

Mrs. Sheeley closed the meeting with the poem, "It is Called Autumn." Refreshments were served during the social hour which followed.

Engagement announced

MISS VENIDA K. GIBBS

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Gibbs, 414 South Sixth Avenue, Middleport, Ohio, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Venida Kay to Larry K. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Wilson of Clarksburg.

Miss Gibbs is currently employed by the Income Tax Division of the State of Ohio. Her fiancé is serving with the U.S. Army.

An October wedding is planned.

Mrs. Bitzer Garden Club Council head

The Presidents' Council of the Fayette County Garden Clubs met Tuesday afternoon at the Washington Inn. The meeting was opened by outgoing contact chairman Mrs. Donald Meredith. Officers to serve for the coming year were elected as follows: County contact chairman - Mrs. Willard Bitzer; secretary-treasurer - Mrs. James Braun; and news reporter - Mrs. Dwight Duff.

Tentative plans for a County Garden Club Bus Tour were discussed. It was decided to schedule the Tour for May or June and four prospective destinations were selected. These are to be discussed at each club's next meeting and the wishes of the clubs presented at the next Presidents' Council meeting. There was discussion concerning the planting and maintenance of the flower beds in the tree boxes in the downtown area. Individual garden clubs have been assisting with this project for the past two years.

The possibility of the County Garden Clubs conducting a Bi-Centennial rural mail box painting and planting contest was discussed. The contest will be conducted in the spring of 1976, with judging to be done in June by judges provided by the garden clubs.

It was announced that the Fair Flower Show in 1976 will have a Bicentennial theme, with the emphasis on traditional arrangements. Each club was asked to send their Flower Show Chairman or a club representative to a planning meeting Monday, Oct. 27 at 11 a.m. at the Washington Inn.

Mrs. Meredith announced the Regional Meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the United Methodist Church in Wilmington. Featured speakers will be Midge DeWitt, author of "From One Woman's Window" and Mrs. Mary Houghton, who will demonstrate "Table Settings in Flower Shows". New Regional Director Mrs. Jay Straley will be installed in office during the morning session. Reservations must be made before Oct. 23 to Mrs. Wilbur Vance, 949 Mitchell Rd., Wilmington, Ohio.

The next Presidents' Council meeting will be held at 2 p.m. on Nov. 25 at the Washington Inn.

Those present at Tuesday's meeting and the clubs represented were: Mrs. Bitzer and Mrs. Edwin Thompson - Fayette; Mrs. Braun, Mrs. Dana Kellenberger - Twin Oaks; Mrs. Jess Schlichter - Posey; Mrs. Meredith, Mrs. Robert Wilson - Washington; and Mrs. Duff - Town and Country.

Letters from readers of The Record-Herald

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In this letter we'll be discussing primarily agricultural land values (land devoted exclusively and entirely to agriculture) and how these values stand to be affected by the reappraisal.

We have been saying to you "the sexennial reappraisal of agricultural land . . . is to be completed in 1976, which will result in an increase in your taxes. Just how much we'll not know until January 1977 when we get our tax notices based on the 1976 duplicate."

This is all very true and correct. However, there is an alternative and some things, in connection therewith, which must be done no later than the first Monday of this coming March (1976). The alternative is to have your agricultural land valued according to it "agricultural use value" rather than at its appraised or "true market value."

Here is what's involved:

(1) The landowner must know what the appraised value or true market value is else how would he know if the abovementioned alternative would benefit him? Even though, technically and legally speaking, our sexennial reappraisal will not be completed until the end of 1976, the County Auditor will be able to furnish you with your reappraisal or true market value anytime after this December 1, 1975.

(2) There must be available a land or soil type map available of your farm. Thanks to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service we have these maps on file in the Auditors Office.

(3) For each and every land parcel in Fayette County we must have the exact acreage of each type of soil in said parcel. Thanks to the Sabre Company and your County Commissioners this information will very shortly be on file in the Auditors office.

(4) In order to avail yourself, the landowner, of these services and this information you may sometime after Dec. 1, 1975 come to the land map office (directly across from the Auditors office).

(5) The Auditor will assist you in computing the "land use value" of your agricultural land. You are now in a position to compare the "land use value" of your farm with the appraised or "true market value."

(6) If it appears that it would be to your advantage to use the "land use value" for the tax base rather than "true market value," you may do just that by filling out an application in the County Auditor's office sometime between the first Monday in January (1976) and the first Monday in March (1976). The application, as required by law, must be accompanied with a ten ($10) nonrefundable deposit.

Just how all this will affect you and your agricultural tax base, we don't know at the moment. We do suspect, however, there might be very little if any advantage accrue to you by going the "land use value" route unless the land is located preferentially, such as near a city or perhaps an industrial development. There is a little catch to this, however, which any Commissioner or the County Auditor would be glad to discuss with you.

In any case, your land values and consequently your taxes will increase considerably. There is nothing any official on the local level can do about this situation. If you had lived in Athens Co. the increase would be 107.6 per cent, Knox 53.4 per cent, Clermont 45.1 per cent and so forth.

We had better become tax conscious.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

The Washington C.H. Area Community Education Advisory Council takes this opportunity to thank the many friends of community education who helped make the second annual Offsides Day an outstanding success. We want all who participated in and observed the festivities and game to know how deeply we appreciate their support.

In addition to the enjoyable activities such as the parade, the balloon ascension, the Optimist Club's Oktoberfest, and the main event game, the community education program received substantial monetary benefits for the continuation of local educational and recreational programs.

Our community is now known throughout mid-America as a place where the people: are proud of their community; can work together for a good cause; and have a terrific sense of community meetings.

"They are not that productive . . . and I want the input and that comes informally," he explained.

Gordon said the plan is expected to be completed by Dec. 9.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I would like to address this letter to all of the parents who have children in the ninth grade health class in the city high school, or those who have children who will be in this class in the next year or two. As parents I hope that you are interested in what books your children read and study from, and what they are taught in the classroom. A book has come to my attention which is being used in this class that I believe has some definite problems. It is called

"Good Health"; and although it has some good health sections in it, there is one section which definitely is not good. It is the section that deals with human sexuality.

There are three main problems with the book and specifically with this section. (1) It is a college level textbook as recorded in the front of the book. (2) It therefore contains material which no ninth grade child needs to know. (Let me make a comment on this point. I have in my library a book called "Sexual Understanding Before Marriage", by Herbert J. Miles a Christian Physician. I give this book to engaged couples who are planning on being married by me. I do not give it to ninth grade high school students. It is interesting to me how stupid some people can really appear. They tell us that education will solve our problems, and that if we educate the child, for example, concerning VD we will solve the problem of VD. How utterly stupid. California has been educating children concerning VD for over 10 years and the VD problem there is much greater than it was 10 years ago. Ninety-nine times out of one-hundred, VD is the result of SIN. It is a moral problem and will only be solved when it is dealt with from that perspective. (3) The health book section contains moral judgments that are clearly contrary to the Christian philosophy based upon the Bible, God's Word. Contrary to much pseudo intellectual babbling about the evolving mores of society, the Bible says that sexual relationships before marriage are sin and will be judged by God (Hebrews 13:4). Despite the "hard sell" on the plight of the persecuted homosexual, the Bible teaches that homosexuality is sin and likewise will be judged by God (Romans 1:26-32).

Often the weak idea is expressed which says that our teens can read worse things on the bathroom walls and see more in the "girlie magazines" in our news stands. That is a far cry indeed from a tax-supported public school teaching things which are contrary to a vast number of the parents who support it. As one fellow said, "When reading the bathroom walls becomes required for my child then you can bet your boots you will hear from me again."

May I urge you as a parent to get your hands on a copy of this book and read carefully this section on Human Sexuality. It is only as you speak up and show your concern that our public schools will be slowed in their drift away from the value system they once supported.

Denny Howard, Pastor
Fayette Bible Church

Blood donations top quota by 49 pints

A total of 209 pints of blood were received at the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit Thursday at the Grace United Methodist Church.

The 209-pint total was 49 pints over the quota of 160 pints.

The Bloodmobile visit, sponsored by members of the Washington C.H. Lions Club, attracted a total of 242 donors. Red Cross officials said 140 of those donating blood were giving as replacements, mostly for three Fayette County men who underwent open heart surgery recently.

There were 25 rejections. Thirty-seven of those who gave blood were first-time donors. There were 199 appointments and 14 walk-ins.

Marilyn Heinz increased her donations to six gallons; Phillip W. Johnson, Charles J. Wehner, Alvin E. Writsel, Richard R. Pfeifer, Mary Kay McCoy and Patrick J. Riley, two gallons; and James R. Hanawalt, Mark D. Thellmann, John A. Bernard and Roberta Bowers, one gallon.

Thirty-five volunteer workers logged 234 hours.

Physicians on duty were Dr. Joseph Herbert, Dr. J. H. Persinger, Dr. Byers Shaw, Dr. K. F. Chan, and Dr. C. H. Hung.

Registered nurses were Ann Dorn, Joan Stone, Florence Purcell, Joyce Hidy, Gretchen Witherspoon, Billie Shaw, Betty Lundberg, Cora W. Sperry, Gayle Roszmann, Margaret Johnson, Jane Rowe, Margaret Sollars and Sandy Black. Licensed practical nurses were Patty Wells, Mary Beard and Linda Mongold. Practical nurses were Vivian Underwood and Barbara Foy.

Red Cross staff aides on duty were Nancy Elliott, Mabel Ellis, Rita Lanman, Jayne Sollars, Fran Junk, Helene Sanderson, Mary Dray, LaVerne Bray, Elizabeth Miller, Nadine Rost, Betty Binzel, Linda Brown, Toddy Thompson, Dorothy Dunn, Billie Hayes and Betty Korn. Carol Thompson served as a medical technician.

Canteen workers were Rosemary Persinger, Libby Brown, Mary J. Calentine, Mary Brocke, Virginia Loudner, Amelia Child, Dorothy Pensyl, Ruth Parrett and Cathy Meredith.

Contributing to the canteen were the WSCS of the Grace United Methodist Church, Food World, Circle No. 2 of the First Presbyterian Church, Enslens Market, Pennington Bakery, Central Grocery and Sagar Dairy.

Members of the Welcome Wagon Club staffing the nursery were Sandy Anderson, Joan Lipscomb, Georgina Munn, Penny Rine and Sandy White. Drivers were provided by the Business and Professional Women's Club. They were Dorothy Miller and Frances White.

City street department employees set up the equipment brought by the Bloodmobile and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the JNROTC unit at Washington Senior High School reloaded the equipment.

Malpractice suits stifling research?

DETROIT (AP) — One of the nation's pioneer heart surgeons says major breakthroughs in treating heart disease are being stifled by consumer activists whose threats of malpractice suits are frightening physicians.

Dr. Dwight Harken of Boston, here to deliver the keynote address to an international symposium on cardiac surgery, said in an interview Wednesday that the "well-intentioned and often good efforts" of many consumer advocates have frequently proved harmful.

"There has developed a public attitude that could kill creativity" in heart surgery, said Harken, the first surgeon to successfully remove shell fragments from the heart during World War II.

"Consumerism and overkill in demands for absolute safety have become so restrictive that many errors of omission may replace a few errors of commission.

"The public requirement that the practitioner be completely successful or be responsible in the courts is a devastating inroad.

"That any failure of a device or procedure may be penalized has stifled innovation, restricted industry and unfavorably affected the quality, distribution and cost of the delivery of health care."

Harken was the first physician to place a totally implantable pacemaker in the body and has developed heart valves, heart lung machines, instruments and surgical techniques for treating heart disease.

He said it is important that more doctors work to develop still better instruments and techniques, but the "popular growing wave of consumerism plus the epidemic of malpractice suits" now sweeping the medical community has caused hesitation among many would-be pioneers.

"We need a new era of public awareness that a doctor tries to give the patient something better than what he has," despite the fact that the effort may not always be successful, Harken said.

Chamber of Commerce backs bond issues

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Greater Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce has voted to support all four constitutional amendments proposed by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The amendments, which will appear as State Issues 2, 3, 4 and 5 on the November ballot, include two bond issues totalling $4.5 billion, a tax incentive program for new industry and industrial expansion, and a state housing program.

Don't forget the Fayette County Pilot's Association dinner meeting, Tuesday evening, Oct. 14 at the Terrace Lounge. Social hour at 6:30, dinner at 7:15, and the meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Non-members are welcome. Call the airport 335-1761 or Mrs. Ruth Pfaff (after 5:30) 335-3491 to make your dinner reservations. Don and Pat Fairbanks will be the guest speakers. Pat will have slides on her participation in several Powder Puff Derbies as well as other aspects of her career in aviation. Don will have slides on his participation in the Reno, Nevada air races for several seasons, so between the two, it looks like a fun evening. Come and join us, won't you?

Attention Ohio veterans: I have information here at the airport concerning the Ohio Veterans Bonus which you might be eligible for. This bonus can be used toward the cost of your private pilot's license. Call the airport for more information.

Attention all veterans: Some of you might be aware of the "50 per cent Rule" the VA made into law last December. There is a good possibility this will be repealed if a new bill (HR-9295) introduced by Rep. Olin Teague of Texas is passed. However, we need more correspondence from you, the veteran, if this is to be stopped. Write or call your congressman, write to the President - anything at all you can do along these lines will help. I have a list of government personnel to whom you can write here at the airport. Please let us hear from you.

Pilots flying this past week have been Tom Preston, Don Simonton, Jim Roberds, Kevin Mallow, Bob Lundquist, Bob Sowers, Tic Bryant, Tom Pfaff, Ron Walker, Louie Poole, Bob Wilson, Bill Dennis, Todd Dennis, Bob Meenach, Don Soale, Larry Soldan and Bill DaRif.

For bicentennial observance

Fayette County realtors schedule essay contest

Local realtors are going to celebrate the bicentennial in a really big way in Fayette County, according to Tom Mark, chairman of the bicentennial committee of the Fayette County Board of Realtors.

The local realtors are planning to sponsor an arts and essay contest in the schools in which students will develop the theme, "Uncle Sam, the Man and the Legend." The contest will be held statewide in cooperation with the Ohio Association of Realtors.

According to Mark, many people do not realize that there really was an "Uncle Sam" who lived during the birth of the nation. "Uncle Sam's" real name was Sam Wilson and he was a brickmaker, storekeeper, a meat processor, but most of all, he bought and sold real estate.

"His sympathy for others, his interest in the workers in his establishment and with the townspeople, earned him his famed nickname 'Uncle Sam'." With ready help and advice he endeared himself to everyone and in 1812 as war clouds again gathered, he contracted to help the U.S. Army with its beef supply," Mark explained. "The barrels of beef were stamped with the United States insignia, 'U.S.' but the citizens around his community knew better. To them, 'U.S.' meant only one thing - 'Uncle Sam'. People watching the processions of beef shipments would say, 'There goes more beef from Uncle Sam! Uncle Sam is feeding the Army.' And thus, the initials of Uncle Sam and the United States became intermingled and the legend was firmly cemented," Mark said.

"'Uncle Sam' is a symbol of America. Because America's symbols have, during the last decade been sullied, maligned and laughed at by a few, we want to change this and again re-establish warmth and pride to America's symbols," Mark added.

In addition to the Uncle Sam contest, local realtors will also become involved in the overall community's bicentennial celebration plans, with further plans to be announced later.

Harris raps Ford plan

CLEVELAND (AP)—Presidential aspirant Fred Harris of Oklahoma accused President Ford Thursday of "tax cut titillation" in a speech here.

Harris, a former senator and chairman of the Democratic party, said Ford's plan to cut taxes was an election-eve ploy and that Ford's plan "mainly helps the superrich and corporations" at the expense of the average family.

Harris, who is entered in the Ohio presidential primary, said his platform calls for redistribution of wealth and greater government concern for the common man.

He said he would like to appeal to persons who feel they are "overtaxed by government and overcharged by utilities and other monopolies."

"The issue is privilege," he said. "These industrialists say they believe in free enterprise. I'd like to give them a very strong dose of it."

Ford trip off due to security

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei Sakharov accepted award of the Nobel Peace Prize with "genuine pleasure" and said it was for all those "who struggle for freedom, human rights, for openness."

Sakharov, the 54-year-old nuclear physicist who has become the Soviet Union's leading voice in the struggle for human rights, said he would go to Oslo to accept the prize if he is allowed to return.

There was no immediate reaction by the official Soviet press, but there seemed little doubt the Kremlin would be angered by award of the prestigious prize to a person who has become known around the world as a symbol of dissent in this Communist land.

Sakharov said he believed the Soviet government would "react with reason. I want to believe that this will not be taken as a challenge."

He said he considered the prize "an expression of the spirit of tolerance that by itself definitely should be a part of detente."

Sakharov was at a friend's apartment when two other friends rushed in to tell him the news Thursday. Since it was not broadcast on Soviet media, Russians had to learn of the prize via foreign news broadcasts and word of mouth.

The friends heard it from Sakharov's stepdaughter, who was called by foreign newsmen.

The citation said Sakharov's "personal and fearless effort in the cause of peace among mankind serves as a mighty inspiration to all true endeavors to promote peace."

By the time foreign newsmen tracked him down, Sakharov had time to prepare a brief statement. He said he hoped the award would aid political prisoners in the Soviet Union and that the prize "is in a larger extent for those who are paying a high price for it with their own deprivation of freedom."

"I hope that now in the period of detente a general political amnesty (of prisoners) in the Soviet Union is closer than at any time. It is in the interests of the forces of detente not only abroad but also in our country."

Asked how the prize would affect his personal position, Sakharov said, "I think it will strengthen my situation, my position, it will increase my personal independence.... And I want to believe that no other action against me and especially my relatives will be undertaken."

"That would contradict the spirit of the new course of detente, the new epoch. I think everything will be fine."

Sakharov had not yet talked with his wife, Yelena, who was in Italy where she underwent an eye operation. Reached by newsmen in Florence, Mrs. Sakharov said she had sent her husband a telegram saying, "I embrace you and congratulate you."

Sakharov said he had not yet considered what to do with the $140,000 that goes with the prize.

It remained to be seen if the Soviet government would take the reasonable position Sakharov hoped for. It was considered likely the Soviets would not view the prize as a contribution to detente, but a challenge to Soviet authorities.

Linda Whiteside finalist for Ashland College queen

ASHLAND — Linda Whiteside of Washington C.H. is among the five finalists for homecoming queen at Ashland College.

The queen, selected by an all-campus vote, will be crowned during pre-game ceremonies at 1 p.m. Saturday at Community Stadium before the Ashland Eagles meet Northwood Institute of Michigan on the gridiron.

Miss Whiteside, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Whiteside, 520 E. Temple St., is a senior at Ashland College majoring in communications. She is rush chairman of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, co-chairman of freshman orientation, a member of Kalon Senior Women's honorary and the college's bicentennial-centennial committee.

She is being sponsored in the contest by the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Wheat tips given farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Yields up to 70, 80 and 90 bushels an acre have been reported this year by wheat growers in Ohio, with many able to harvest on time or a little early, says Walter Jones of the Ohio Seed Improvement Association.

Some diseases, such as "take-all," were reported, but were not as serious as last year, Jones said, adding that scab was reported but of low severity, and mildew was prevalent but didn't reduce yields.

Leaf rust occurred late and of moderate severity, and spindle streak mosaic occurred early, he said.

Jones suggests that wheat growers prepare for 1976 by considering how some diseases affect wheat varieties commonly grown in Ohio.

One is "take-all" which can affect any of the varieties. There is no known resistance to the disease at this time, he said, adding that the best practice to minimize "take-all" is not to plant wheat after wheat.

Leaf rust has been occurring late in Ohio, and therefore has not been significant in reducing yields, Jones said. Mildew affects some varieties more than others, but hasn't appeared to reduce yields.

Scab can affect any of the varieties, but in recent years has hurt yields of early varieties more than later ones, he said. Rainy weather during pollination often gives scab the opportunity it needs to attack plants and reduce yields, he added.

Studies are now being made to determine the extent of yield reduction from Spindle Streak Mosaic, which occurs early in the season in cool weather.

The risk of yield reduction can be reduced by using a good quality seed and good marketing, Jones said.

Hocking Hills State Park is made up of 9,198 acres in Hocking State Forest, an area of picturesque scenery notable for the widest variety of trees and plants found on any Ohio landscape.

Jobless pay shows drop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the 12th consecutive week, continuing unemployment benefits dropped in Ohio under state and federal programs, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services said Thursday.

For the week ended Sept. 27, compensation for one week or more went to 135,045 persons, compared to 137,095 the week before and an average of 61,073 for a week in October 1974. The bureau estimated that unemployment insurance would go to 131,500 individuals for the week ended Oct. 4.

However, new claims went up for the week ended Oct. 4 to 21,113, compared to 16,263 the week before and 14,080 during the average week a year ago.

Extended state and federal programs used when the regular compensation is exhausted also rose, but federal supplemental benefits and additional supplemental benefits new claims decreased compared to the week before.

The rate of unemployment in Ohio in August was 8.2 per cent.

1975 Christmas Seal

1975 Christmas Seal campaign is launched

The 1975 Christmas Seal campaign has opened with letters of appeal and Christmas Seals being sent to 18,385 persons and places of business by the South Central Ohio Lung Association. The association serves Fayette, Jackson, Lawrence, Pickaway, Pike and Ross counties.

This year the Christmas Seal design represents a first. The unique format features illustrations inspired by the holiday season done by elementary school children in the 50 states, Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and Samoa-Guam.

"Christmas Seal greetings from the Children of America" is the theme. Singer Vikki Carr has been chosen for the second year to be the national honorary chairman.

Contributions to the Christmas Seal campaign are used in the fight against tuberculosis, emphysema, other lung diseases, air pollution and smoking. In the past few years more than half of the new active cases of tuberculosis were found among persons 45 years of age or older. There are about 15 million tuberculin cases in the nation. The figure represents approximately seven per cent of the total population.

Among diseases of the respiratory system, emphysema continues to be the most prevalent cause of disability with 18,132 workers having a primary diagnosis of the condition. Emphysema continues to rank as the third leading cause of disability.

Miss Frances White is the representative director of the South Central Ohio Lung Association and Miss Helen Slavens and Miss Mary Frances Snider are board members representing Fayette County. Mrs. Robert Goodson is the program associate.

Named lifetime member

Reed receives honor from cancer society

Elmer N. Reed, 619 Fairway Drive, has been nominated for election to the position of honorary lifetime member of the Ohio Division of the American Cancer Society.

Persons elected to the position of honorary lifetime member receive the distinction because of long and outstanding service to the programs of cancer control. While honorary lifetime members do not vote at board of trustees meetings, they are entitled to attend the meetings. They are eligible to vote, however at annual meetings.

There have only been 20 persons elected to the position in the history of the Ohio Division. Currently there are 18 honorary lifetime members, according to Robert A. Gellenback, chairman of the trustees-at-large nominating committee for the Ohio Division of the American Cancer Society.

Reed, who retired after a 35-year career with the Armco Steel Corp., has been active in the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society for 25 years. He served as unit president in 1953, and was the unit's treasurer from 1959 to 1974. Reed was a division trustee from 1959 to 1975 and served as chairman of the division's board of trustees for three years. He was one of three nominees for the honorary lifetime membership. Reed was honored on the local level last September. Unit president Mrs. Charline Cunningham presented Reed with a certificate and a plaque for his years of service to the local unit.

Sophia Loren aids Texas parish priest

LLANO, Tex. (AP) — Actress Sophia Loren's "friendship with a poor parish priest in the heart of Texas" may provide a new church for 40 Roman Catholic families in this Hill Country community west of Austin, says the Rev. Anthony Goossens.

"She has charity and compassion for poor people," Father Goossens said of the film star with whom he has corresponded for 10 years.

Miss Loren sent Father Goossens a set of five ruby rings to be auctioned off for money to rebuild the Holy Trinity mission church in his parish, which covers 3,000 sparsely populated square miles.

About 350 Roman Catholic families, mostly Mexican-Americans, live in the parish, and about 40 of them attend the Llano mission church.

"It is a poor parish," said Father Goossens, who drives around it in an old Volkswagen. "I gave them (the parishioners) the good news last week. They all want to write to Miss Loren and thank her."

He said he does not know how he will auction off the rings.

"I have had calls from around the country from people who want to buy them," he said. "We are going to have to go out of the parish, or the state, to get enough money to rebuild the church.

"I really do not know how much the rings are worth. The real value of the rings is that they come from her ... but, of course, she doesn't buy jewelry at a dime store."

The 61-year-old priest went to Houston in 1965 to visit patients in hospitals there. He met a French woman who had just undergone heart surgery and whose trip had been paid for by Miss Loren.

The priest wrote to Miss Loren to tell her of the patient's condition after the successful operation, and the actress "wrote back to thank me. And then I wrote back and told her about our work," Father Goossens said.

The pair continued to exchange letters, and when the Oblate missionary returned to his native Holland for a visit, he arranged to meet with Miss Loren in Rome. He saw her again last December.

"It was then that I told her about the missions and mentioned casually that we were trying to raise money. I suggested that she give something of her own, and she asked me what that could be."

"After I returned to Texas, I wrote to her suggesting she donate a ring."

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In the window of Hurley's, a fine old Sixth Avenue bar frequented by NBC inmates, there is an old photograph of Jack Paar, taken when he was star of the "Tonight" show.
Paar wrote on the photo, "When the boys in the band ask who this is — it's time to send them back upstairs."
This Sunday, Tom Snyder's "Tomorrow" show will come downstairs to record an occasion which already has the troops from NBC and elsewhere in profound grief — Hurley's last night in business.
The show will air Wednesday. By then, workmen already will be taking apart the legendary, 50-year-old saloon for the new owner, David Wolf. He plans to turn it into what he calls "a real old-fashioned 19th century tavern" featuring steaks and seafood.
All the best to him, but I fear the joint will be overrun by pinstriped executives who drink only martinis and think nothing of blowing $50 on a dinner for two.
It'll be a sharp contrast to the current clientele — scruffy journalists, news producers, photographers and other assorted rascals who belly up to the bar each night to sip a beer or two or three.
On some nights, there even is singing, usually Irish songs rendered by the fine tenor voice of Hugh "Rusty" Brown, a former rifle platoon leader in Vietnam who now is a free-lance photographer.
The songfests draw no objections from the night barkeepers, Martin Galligan and Frank Skuse. It's probably because they're both from Ireland, Martin from County Cavan and Frank from County Cork.

The only things they find objectionable are foul language and noisy drunks, such as the tattered, middle-aged man who teetered in last week, bellowing, "I'll give a job at NBC to anyone who wants it!"
Although autographed pictures of such famous citizens as the late Chet Huntley and Brendan Behan hang above the bar at Hurley's, this plain, honest tavern isn't what you'd call a celebrity hangout.
The only star — and he'd wince at the word — who regularly fell by for dinner in recent years was Jim Hartz. That was when he was an anchorman at WNBC-TV here. Now that he's on the "Today" show, you rarely see him at night in Hurley's because his predawn chores require him to call it a night far earlier than in the old days.
The inhabitants of Hurley's have engaged in considerable discussion this week about what is it that makes the place unique, aside from the fact it has no towels in the men's room.
But one story might sum it up.
One night, a journalist partook of more sauce than was good for him. He eventually teetered out into the cold, cruel night, but forgot to take the change, $10 or so, for the drinks he'd bought at Hurley's.

Junior Bowling League sets signup meeting

A Saturday American Junior Bowling conference (AJBC) league is forming at Bowland Lanes and all interested bowlers through the 12th grade are invited to attend tomorrow's signup and bowling session.

There will be three divisions bowling each Saturday through March. The Bantam Division is for youths up through the fifth grade, the junior division is for bowlers in the sixth through eighth grades and the senior division is designed for high school age bowlers.

The Bantam and Junior division will meet at 9:30 on Saturday mornings and the senior division will bowl at 1 p.m. Tomorrow at Bowland, an organizational meeting will be held at those times with a three-game bowling session to follow.

Price for the opening day session is $1 and shoes will be provided free of charge. Each following Saturday line fees will be $1.80 for three games.

Beginners and experienced bowlers alike are encouraged to join the league and advisors Pat Shepard and Jeff Parker will provide instruction for prospective players.

Teams will be formed and the number depends on how many bowlers sign up for each division. The league will be sanctioned by the AJBC and an Awards Banquet will be held at the end of the season to present trophies and patches. There will also be an AJBC membership fee charged to all bowlers joining the league.

Bristol next manager

ATLANTA (AP) — Dave Bristol, a former manager of the Milwaukee Brewers and Cincinnati Reds, will be named the new manager of the Atlanta Braves today, an Atlanta radio station reported.

The Braves called a news conference later today to make the announcement. Radio WGST, prior to the news conference, reported that Bristol is the new manager.

Bristol, 42, a native of Macon, Ga., spent part of four seasons at Cincinnati and part of three seasons in Milwaukee. Recently he was let go as a coach with the Montreal Expos.

Modell frustrated by Browns losses

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frustration was etched into the craggy face of Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns, as he discussed what has happened with his National Football League team since last fall.

Modell, 50, was forced to suffer along with his team and its fans last season as the Browns turned in a 4-10 record—the worst in the team's history—and finished dead last in the Central Division of the American Football Conference.

Now, with a new head coach and 17 new faces, the Browns have followed up on a 2-4 preseason record with three straight losses in the regular season.

SCOL undefeateds vying for first place in league

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

There should be at least one less undefeated team at the top of the South Central Ohio League standings after tonight's grid action.

Right on the heels of Washington C.H.'s 3-0 SCOL mark are Circleville, Miami Trace and Wilmington each sporting 2-0 league records. This puts the spotlight on Wilmington this Friday night as they host the top class 'AA' school in the state, Circleville.

Washington C.H. will go against a tough Greenfield McClain team and Miami Trace should have an easier time against Hillsboro on the road while Unioto and Madison Plains vie for a move out of the league cellar.

Circleville at Wilmington
With the exception of the Madison Plains victory, Circleville edged to wins in its other four games by one touchdown and tonight shouldn't be any different.

The Tigers and Hurricanes both beat Greenfield by almost identical scores and only the running of Biff Bumgarner makes the class 'AA' AP poll leaders pre-game favorites.

Wilmington sports a tough defense and a four game winning streak while Bumgarner provides all the offensive excitement for the Tigers.

Wilmington can be dangerous on offense, too, with quarterback Duane Earley, fullback Russ Crosthwaite and

It's the same story as last week when the Greenfield Tigers met Circleville. If the defense can stop Bumgarner the Tigers are in big trouble.

It won't be an easy task though as the senior tailback leads the league in scoring and last week rushed for 163 of Circleville's 181 yards despite a tough Greenfield defense keying on him.

Unioto at Madison Plains
After playing Miami Trace and Washington C.H. on two successive Fridays, the Unioto Shermans will be looking forward to their trip to Madison Plains.

The Sherman's big backs should make quick work of Madison Plains' thin line and it looks like another league loss for the Eagles.

However, the Eagles will be pitted against a team it can possibly stay on the field with and a move out of the SCOL cellar could be enough incentive to put up a good fight.

Washington C.H. at Greenfield
Greenfield has come off two narrow losses to Circleville and Wilmington. That along with the intense rivalry with Court House and a homecoming celebration should give the Blue Lions all the fight they can handle.

Washington C.H.'s 12-quarter shutout streak should get quite a test from the Greenfield passing offense and the running of Tony Anderson.

The injury plagued Blue Lions, who have lost three key players for the season, were without two of their top defensive backs in practice this week. They are expected to be suited up for tonight's contest, but they better be sharp and ready to play against a team that passes nearly 30 per cent of the time.

Washington C.H. could be listed as a slight favorite over a team it has beaten eight years in a row.

Miami Trace at Hillsboro
Panther coach Fred Zechman said he isn't taking the Hillsboro Indian's coach lightly and it's a sure bet that the Hillsboro Indian's coach isn't taking Miami Trace lightly either.

The Panthers have racked up the most points and most total yards in the league so far this season and if Hillsboro can cut down on the Panther average it will surprise everyone.

Zechman is mainly concerned with the Indians swift backfield featuring Steve Kelch and Ken Captain.

All in all, the Panthers should have the easiest time of among the league's top four teams this week.

Grid picker sees Bengals posting win

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — At a time when you should have baseball on the brain, the National Football League completes its first month of action Sunday.

It seems unfair. Baseball doesn't infringe on the Super Bowl. So football should let the World Series hold center stage.

Some NFL teams understand and have been cooperating. Four weeks into the schedule, New England, San Diego, Cleveland, Kansas City, Green Bay and New Orleans still are seeking their first victories. They may, for all anybody knows, still be on strike.

Besides the six have-nots, there are five NFL teams operating at the other side of the ledger with perfect 3-0 records. They are Buffalo, Dallas, Cincinnati, Oakland and Minnesota. All seem likely to continue winning this week.

Last week's record was a healthy 10-3 running the season's log to 30-9 for .763.

This week's picks:

San Francisco 17, Atlanta 7

The 49ers seem to be on the right track and scored a convincing victory over Kansas City on the road last week. Atlanta quarterback Steve Bartkowski could make this one close.

Buffalo 30, Baltimore 10

If the Bills are this good without All-Pro defensive back Robert James and flashy wide receiver Ahmad Rashad, imagine where O.J. Simpson and Co. would be if those guys were healthy.

Detroit 14, Chicago 10

Don't be fooled by the Lions. They are fattening up on the NFL's weak sisters. But how far can they go with no passing attack? Chicago looked at read-passer Virgil Carter this week. What does that tell you about their passing game?

Dallas 24, New York Giants 14

Tom Landry's got the young, rebuilt Cowboys believing anything is possible. And against the Giants, they're probably right.

Green Bay 13, New Orleans 3

It took the Saints three weeks to score their first touchdown. It may take them three more to score their next one. The Packers have to win one for Bart Starr pretty soon.

Houston 33, Cleveland 10

The Oilers almost kayoed Cincinnati last week. They'll have an easier task against the winless Browns, who'll have to find a way to stop Don Hardeman if they want to keep the score respectable.

Oakland 20, Kansas City 10

Back when the Chiefs were a contender, this was one of the league's best matchups. Oakland's offense needs a healthy Ken Stabler to operate.

Los Angeles 30, San Diego 3

The Rams are about due to break out and act like the Super Bowl team everyone said they would be. This is a good week for it with the lackluster Chargers on the other side of the field.

Cincinnati 14, New England 7

While the rest of the city worries about the Red Sox and Reds, the Bengals will be busy with the Patriots. Ken Anderson is healthy for Cincinnati and New England wishes Jim Plunkett could be 100 per cent for the Pats.

Minnesota 24, N.Y. Jets 10

Scrambling Fran Tarkenton will give the reconstructed Jets' defense a headache. New York has the league's leading receiver in tight end Rich Caster, a large-sized target for Joe Namath.

Washington 24, St. Louis 7

The Redskins will bounce back against the Cardinals, who looked great, until the second half, against the hapless Giants last week.

Pittsburgh 21, Denver 17

The Broncos can be tough and the Steelers can be inconsistent. Put those two factors together and this one could be closer than it should be.

Oklahoma favored in Texas clash

By TIM WHITE
AP Sports Writer

Darrell Royal is tired of having Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer decide how he spends his time.

Short of ropin' and tyin' No. 2-ranked Oklahoma, there's nothing the Texas coach would rather do than spend an evening listening to the records of such country and western greats as, well ... Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys—and now Switzer won't even let him do that.

For the past four years, Switzer has seen to it that the Sooners outdueled their fifth-ranked Red River rivals in their annual shootout. But he added insult to injury in the offseason by suggesting that certain coaches should do more recruiting and less listening to Country & Western guitar pickers, etc.

Oklahoma, the favorite, is unbeaten in 33 games and rides a 24-game winning streak into the arena of collegiate football's "High Noon" at the sold-out 72,000-seat Cotton Bowl.

Both teams are 4-0 and boast fine offenses built around two of collegiate football's premier Wishbone-T backs, Joe Washington for Oklahoma and Texas' Earl Campbell.

Texas has an improved defense featuring linebackers Bill Hamilton, Rick Fenlaw and Lionell Johnson, but will have its hands full with Oklahoma's brothers Selmon, Dewey and Leroy, and Jimbo Elrod, who made 19 tackles against Colorado last week in a 21-20 survival.

Colorado, No. 13, opens the weekend action tonight against Miami in the Orange Bowl. Coach Bill Malory describes Miami, a team that pressured both Oklahoma and Nebraska before bowing, as "a real sleeper." In another major encounter tonight, Southern Methodist entertains Texas Christian.

A crowd of over 60,000 is expected for Saturday's West Virginia-Penn State war. Penn State, No. 9 nationally, has triumphed the last 19 years, except for a 14-14 draw in 1958, and the Nittany Lions are counting on running backs Jim Cefalo and Woody Petchel to notch another victory over the 10th-ranked Mountaineers.

The Iowa-Ohio State game Saturday is the only Big Ten collision where one team is favored by more than a touchdown. The oddsmakers figure the top-

Tony Waldrop back from hand injury

MEXICO, CITY (AP) — Tony Waldrop, the rangy, blond, bespectacled and brainy long distance runner from the University of North Carolina, is considered the United States' best bet for a track gold medal at the 1975 Pan American games, which begin Sunday.

But he almost didn't get to the track. About a week ago, the 5-foot-11, 145-pound Waldrop was warming up outside the huge Olympic Stadium which will be the scene of the track and field competition, when he suddenly fell on a rough patch of asphalt.

"I was aware of that rough spot," he recalled, "but I wasn't thinking at the time. I was just daydreaming. My hand ranked Buckeyes, 4-0 after victories over Michigan State, Penn State, North Carolina and UCLA, can defeat the Hawkeyes as they please.

Elsewhere in the Top 20, No. 8 Michigan faces No. 15 Michigan State; Kansas visits No. 4 Nebraska; No. 14 Oklahoma State squares off against No. 12 Missouri; No. 7 Alabama hosts Washington; Louisiana State challenges No. 19 Tennessee; Vanderbilt opposes No. 18 Florida; No. 15 Notre Dame plays North Carolina; Washington State tackles No. 3 Southern California, and No. 20 Miami, Ohio will be at Dayton.

No. 6 Texas A&M travels to Texas Tech, No. 11 Arizona State meets New Mexico and No. 17 Arizona takes on Texas El-Paso Saturday night.

Norman fumes, Billingham pitches

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Jack Billingham, the forgotten man on the Cincinnati Reds pitching staff during the playoffs, has been reinstated for a World Series start and teammate Fred Norman is fuming about it.

Controversy, a rare visitor to the happy-go-lucky Reds this season, reared its head Thursday when Manager Sparky Anderson elevated slump-ridden Billingham to starting status on the Reds' three-man rotation.

Norman told writers he was "upset" with the demotion after proving his mettle with a 6-1 victory over Pittsburgh in Game Two of the National League playoffs.

"I think I'm one of the guys who got us here," grumbled Norman, who had a career-best 12-4 record in 1975.

The Reds departed for Boston early today and were scheduled for a first look at Fenway Park in the afternoon.

Billingham, who stumbled the final six weeks of the season-losing five of his last six decisions-has been named Cincinnati's starting pitcher for Sunday's game at Boston.

Lefty Don Gullett opens for the Reds in Saturday's opener against veteran Luis Tiant. Billingham is expected to face Rick Wise Sunday.

A 19-game winner in 1973 and 1974, Cincinnati fans figured Billingham's day were numbered as a Red due to his late-season collapse the past two years.

"I've heard the trade talk," said Billingham, whose bloated 4.11 earned run average was the worst among Cincinnati starters. Anderson apparently made the move to combat Boston's "Green Monster," the nearby left field fence that gives left handed pitchers fits.

Norman theorized that Anderson is "going with Jack to offset their right hand hitting" and take advantage of Billingham's sinkerball-a pitch that is normally hit into the ground. Another factor was Billingham's brilliant 0.00 earned run average in 13 2-3 inning against the Oakland As in the 1972 World Series.

"It's been frustrating and disappointing, but I'm confident," said Billingham, who had a 6.39 ERA in the final six weeks of the season.

Gritty Pete Rose discounts the short left field all as a major factor in the two weekend games at Fenway Park.

"The wall? What wall? The Berlin Wall?" teased Rose, reflecting the Reds' attitude about the "Green Monster".

"We haven't seen their wall and those guys haven't seen something like Don Gullett in a long time," said Rose, a driving force behind the baseball's winningest team over the past four years.

Yet the Reds haven't won a World Series since 1940, falling short in the 1961, 1970 and 1972 World Series.

"Our attitude is we're not going to settle for second best this year," said Gullett, a hard-throwing lefty who helps himself with his fancy fielding and an ever-dangerous bat.

"We're going all the way," said the 24-year-old fireballer.

Cincinnati takes an eightgame winning streak into the series and has won 13 of its last 14 games.

Gullett to face Tiant in opener

Reds get look at Fenway

BOSTON (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds get their first look at Fenway Park and its famous—or is that infamous?—left field wall today on the eve of baseball's 1975 World Series.

The best known fence in baseball is 315 feet down the left field line and looms 37 feet high. It makes right-handed hitters positively drool and more than one left-handed pitcher has been swallowed up by it. On Thursday, it even caused a controversy in the camp of the usually placid Reds.

"Sure I'm upset," snapped Norman, who won 12 games during the regular season and also captured the second game of the playoffs against Pittsburgh. "I think I'm one of the guys who got us here."

Anderson explained his choice of Billingham saying, "We want a right-hand pitcher in that ball park."

Norman didn't hide his anger at the decision. "I've been pitching against

Meanwhile, Boston Manager Darrell Johnson pulled a minor surprise, naming left-hander Bill Lee to start the second game against Anderson's surprise starter, Billingham.

Lee has not started since Sept. 19 but won 17 games during the regular season. He was not used in the playoffs against Oakland with Johnson starting Reggie Cleveland and Rick Wise after Tiant.

"For one thing, Lee's left arm is fine again after a little soreness and basically he's a ground-ball pitcher," said Johnson. "He's also been a consistent winner in our ball park."

Johnson said Wise will start the third game of the series Tuesday night in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium. Cleveland will move to the Boston bullpen for the first three games.

"Wise is a high ball pitcher and should do better in their big ball park and on their artificial turf," said Johnson.

The manager must have been checking the past performance charts on that selection. Wise pitched a no-hitter against the Reds in Riverfront in 1971 and two years later carried another no-hitter into the ninth inning at Riverfront before surrendering Cincinnati's only hit in that game to Joe Morgan.

right-hand hitters all my life and I don't think that's a problem," he said.

The Reds, however, think Gullett, another left-hander, will provide plenty of problems for the Red Sox, the close-in fence notwithstanding.

"We haven't seen their wall and those guys haven't seen something like Don Gullett in a long time," warned Pete Rose, the Reds' peppery leadoff batter.

Gullett will be Cincinnati's starting pitcher in Saturday's opener. He'll oppose herky-jerky Luis Tiant, the man with a million motions, some of which the Reds think may be balk moves.

Anderson was angry at a report that he had sent films of Tiant's move to the National League offices. "That is a total lie," he said. But Anderson said he would seek a clarification of the balk rule in the pre-series meeting with the umpires.

"I want it thoroughly discussed and I want it decided what is a balk and what isn't. I have nothing against Tiant. But I say if he isn't balking, let's forget about balks. You might as well throw the book out."

In question is Tiant's habit of pitching from a stretch position that includes a series of semistops. Anderson said he wants "a legitimate stop."

Fred Fleig, supervisor of National League umpires, said "we know all about Tiant." He said the umpire would be concerned with three things.

"The first is the slow step-by-step drop of his hands," said Fleig. "he has to throw the ball somewhere after the final set. Once he sets, he can't then drop his hands below the belt."

"Second, his rhythm in the way he drops his hands has to be constant and after everybody in the American League complained, he's been all right there."

"Third, if he throws to first he'd better look like he stepped to first before he threw. The National League calls this very strictly and we'll be watching him like a hawk. I think any trouble will be with the step."

Tiant, however anticipates no problem.

"He can say what he wants. I don't let it bother me," the veteran right-hander said.

"I'm not going to change, not after all these years. I've been in the major leagues 11 years and I've never had a balk called on me."

Jack Nicklaus tops Weiskopf

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the victor, and Tom Weiskopf, the vanquished, sounded like salemen for match play golf.

"Financially, I think you could make it in an area where you could draw a gallery," said Nicklaus Thursday after trimming Weiskopf two and one for the $117,500 International All-Star title.

"After all," added Nicklaus, "15 years ago in medal play our galleries weren't much."

Weiskopf took a different approach. "The truest test in match play is 36 holes and that's not because I lost," he said. "Even more exciting match play is when two players play against two others."

The International All-Star was not a good example for the two theories. Less than 1,000 persons showed up to watch the semifinals and finals Thursday over the Muirfield Village Memorial course.

After thumping Jerry Heard six and five in the semifinals and Weiskopf, Nicklaus revealed his approach to match play success.

"You play a lot more reckless. You attack the course more. That's why you make more double bogeys and birdies," said Nicklaus, winning a match play event for the first time since his 1971 Piccadilly crown.

Said Weiskopf, "I didn't play a lot of amateur golf, so I never played a lot of match play. But you shoot at the pin more, you cut the corners."

Nicklaus played even par golf in ousting Heard. He was one over against Weiskopf for a $25,000 check. That pushed his unofficial earnings past $316,000 for the year's tour money champion.

Weiskopf, earning $15,000, edged Australian Bob Stanton one-up in the semifinals.

Stanton took the consolation championship, going 21 holes to edge Heard. He collected $12,500, $2,500 more than Heard.

Nicklaus and Weiskopf returned today to join Johnny Miller and Lee Trevino in a $1,000-a-hole exhibition.

Bye Knight winner of Lebanon feature

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Bye Knight nosed out Phylarob in a photo finish to win the featured pace mile in the eighth at Lebanon Raceway Thursday night in 2:07 3-5.

The winning tickets returned $6.60, $3.20 and $2.80. Phylarob paid $4.80 and $3.20 after finishing second and Dizzie Dan, third, paid $3.20.

The crowd of 1,185 bet $140,122.

SMALL FRY HAS MADE IT BIG

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Rosalie Marie Allison is just over a year old and doing well, but when she was born she weighed a mere 2 pounds, 14 ounces. Today her weight is 15 pounds, 12 1/2 ounces and climbing.

The first child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allison, Rosalie was born two months premature. Respiratory and other medical problems kept her in an incubator for two months.

Rosalie won her battle with the help of some sophisticated and expensive hospital equipment and medical skills, leaving the Allisons several thousand dollars in debt. Half of the $7,000 hospital bill was paid by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare. Allison is paying $10 a month on the remaining hospital bill and $5 a month on the doctor's bill. Donations totaling $300 were used to pay off some of the debts.

Two persons injured in morning mishaps

Early morning traffic accidents in which two persons were injured were reported by both the Washington C.H. Police Department and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department along with additional accidents.

POLICE
FRIDAY, 5:46 a.m. — Roger D. Cox, 20, Leesburg, awoke from falling asleep at the wheel hearing his two passengers, Zeak Huff, 36, Highland, and Lowell C. Wilburn, 33, Leesburg, scream and found himself headed for a parked car on Fayette Street near the Oak Street intersection. Cox swerved his auto and in so doing struck a Dayton Power and Light utility pole. He and Huff showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene, but only Huff sought treatment at Fayette Memorial Hospital for pain in the knees, a bruised right arm and an injured nose. Wilburn was uninjured. City police charged Cox with recklessness.

THURSDAY, 5 p.m. — A pickup truck driven by Gladys Alexander, 45, of 806 Rawlings St., struck a boy on his bicycle when he darted out in front of the Alexander vehicle as it traveled on Rawlings Street near the Delaware Street intersection. Mrs. Alexander attempted to get the boy's name and address, but he rode off on his bicycle refusing to give her the information, police reported.

2:55 p.m. — A car belonging to Ralph N. Baughn, 64, of 425 E. Temple St., was struck in the rear in the 500 block of E. Market Street by a driver who drove off after the mishap. Police are seeking the person responsible for the moderate damage incurred by Baughn's auto.

SHERIFF
FRIDAY, 1:30 a.m. — A car driven by Michael L. Reser, 19, Sabina, failed to negotiate a left curve on Flakes Ford Road, three-tenths of a mile west of Dorthea Drive, skidded across the road 126 feet, struck a tree and came to rest on a steep embankment. His passenger, Dani Jo Mathison, 20, of 2170 Dorthea Drive, showed visible signs of injury at the accident scene and was treated and released for a lacerated right arm at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Girl assaulted, stabbed in chest

CINCINNATI (AP)—Homicide detectives today planned to talk to a 14-year-old Cincinnati girl today at a hospital about her abduction from a shopping center and assault in a Westwood section park.

Police said the girl remained in critical but stable condition at Cincinnati General Hospital following surgery. She had been stabbed in the chest four times, police said.

The girl's father said his daughter had gone to the Western Hills shopping center about 7 p.m. Wednesday night to buy a pair of slacks.

She was found two hours later in the backyard of a resident living near the park.

Traffic Court

A Dayton man was found guilty by Washington C. H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner of driving while under financial responsibility suspension during Thursday afternoon's court proceedings.

James E. Schoonover, 29, of Dayton, was sentenced to serve 15 days in jail and fined $300 and court costs.

Judge Winegardner passed judgement on a similar traffic charge and accepted four bond forfeitures.

Steven R. Anders, 24, Milledgeville, was fined $100 and court costs and sentenced to serve 15 days in jail which would be suspended upon paying the fine and costs for also driving while under financial responsibility suspension and implied consent suspension, Judge Winegardner reported.

Bond forfeitures:

Earl R. Rohrer, 21, New Holland, $25, failing to drive on the right side of the roadway.

Vincent R. Cardin, 38, Alcoa, Tenn., $25, failing to drive on the right half of the roadway.

David E. Steele, 19, Chillicothe, $50, speeding.

Herbert Colburn Jr., 37, Clarksburg, $25, failing to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

Glenn eyes spectre of gas shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, told his Senate colleagues Thursday 14 states face "the spectre of unemployment, economic chaos and human suffering" unless emergency legislation to alleviate natural gas curtailments is enacted.

Ohio's junior senator cited a survey taken recently by the Toledo Area Chamber of Commerce which showed that 58 per cent of the firms contacted in that industrial center contemplate production cutbacks because of announced gas curtailments.

He said the chamber report forecasts a resulting loss of 5,000 to 7,000 jobs and $65 million in local income during the period between Nov. 1 and next March 31.

"One need look no further than the findings of the Toledo Area Chamber of Commerce to face the shocking realities continued inaction (on natural gas) will bring," Glenn said in a speech on the Senate floor.

Glenn and Sens. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., and Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., have introduced a Natural Gas Emergency Act that they believe would bring new supplies of gas to the impacted states.

The legislation has been stalled on the Senate floor by debate over longterm policies, including deregulation. Proponents of longterm approaches want to merge the short-term emergency bill with their long-term answers to the nation's natural gas problem.

With the Nov. 1 curtailment deadline approaching rapidly, Glenn said, "government, business and labor leaders contemplate the potential for an industrial wasteland devoid of the basic ingredient of energy to power their plants."

"The rich economic promise of a budding recovery may soon be trampled and reversed by banked furnaces and lengthening unemployment lines," Glenn declared.

Mechanic's lien law reform eyed

COLUMBUS — State Representative Bob McEwen (R-Hillsboro) recently voted for a reform of Ohio's mechanic's lien laws to protect Ohioans building or improving homes from paying twice for the same work.

Under current law, McEwen noted, the homeowner is liable for bills owed to subcontractors, even if he has already paid the general contractor in full.

"The law is unfair in its present form since no homeowner should have to pay twice for the same work," McEwen said.

McEwen explained that the bill contains provisions designed to protect the legitimate interests of subcontractors and laborers, but not at the expense of the homeowner. "This represents a fair compromise of the various competing interests," McEwen said. "The bill offers an equitable solution to a serious consumer problem. It protects homeowners from double payment without putting subcontractors and working people in dangerous jeopardy."

Officers probe larceny reports

Two incidents of larceny were reported by Washington C.H. police today.

A nine-inch black and white television and three stereo phonograph needles were stolen from the Montgomery Ward store on W. Court Street at 3 p.m. Wednesday. Three juveniles, seen in the store before the theft, are being sought by police. One was a boy and the other two were girls. Value of the stolen merchandise was placed at $86.99.

A billfold containing $8 in cash and a beaded change purse containing an unknown amount of change belonging to Juanita J. Anders, Sabina, was stolen from her handbag at Fayette Memorial Hospital, Columbus Avenue, sometime between 11:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Wednesday. Police are investigating the theft.

Blood run made

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department participated in an emergency blood run for Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Sheriff's Sgt. John L. Emrick picked up the needed blood at the Franklin County line at 11:40 a.m. Thursday and brought it to the hospital.

High court rejects conviction appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to review the conviction of a teen-age honor student in the 1973 inachete slaying of an elderly widow near the City of Stow.

The court rejected an appeal by Richard D. Becker, an honor student and the chaplain of his DeMolay Chapter, who was convicted of first-degree murder in the death of Mildred Hackett.

Mrs. Hackett, who lived alone near a park where Becker worked, was killed Aug. 7, 1973. Evidence showed she was hacked around the head and shoulders with a machete and stabbed 49 times with five kitchen knives.

Becker, whom one teacher described as "a perfect student, very, very intelligent (with) high moral standards," was convicted by a three-judge panel after listening to testimony by a battery of psychologists and psychiatrists.

In their action today: —The court refused to hear an appeal by Patsy Irene Cox in connection with the March 13, 1974 holdup of the Third Federal Savings and Loan Co. in Cuyahoga County.

The bank's manager identified the woman, but the trial judge ordered the identification suppressed because it allegedly was tainted by police interference.

That decision was reversed, however, by the 8th District Court of Appeals, which ruled the identification was independent of police interference. The appellate court ordered the trial to proceed.

The defendant was attempting to appeal that decision.

—The court rejected an appeal by Norma Morris, 20, who faces trial on a charge of petit theft of about $75 worth of merchandise in Hamilton County.

The woman pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to 1 to 5 years in prison as a repeat offender.

In her appeal, she contended the state's repeat offender statute is unconstitutional because it expands what otherwise would be a misdemeanor into a felony.

The 1st District Court of Appeals rejected that argument, but ordered a new trial because of a violation of rules of criminal procedure.

The defendant attempted to carry her challenge of the statute to the Supreme Court. In rejecting it, the court found there was "no substantial constitutional question involved."

—The court refused to hear an appeal by the Van Wert County Welfare Department regarding the custody of a minor child.

That county's juvenile court had ordered the child placed in the permanent custody of the welfare department. The court said the mother, who asked for custody, was an unemployed welfare recipient in New York who since her divorce had been living with a married man and given birth to his child.

The court said the mother had been given a year to provide a suitable atmosphere for the child and had failed to do so.

The 3rd District Court of Appeals reversed that decision, however, ruling that the Juvenile Court had exceeded its authority.

Audit shows big deficit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An audit of Ohio's workmen's compensation system says the system showed a $642 million deficit for the 1968-1972 period, the Cleveland Plain Dealer says.

But administrators of the fund told the newspaper that the auditing firm used improper formulas and that the fund has a $27 million surplus.

The audit, conducted by Woodward & Fondiller of New York, also predicted future financial problems for the system and for the fund, which now totals $1.4 billion.

A spokesman for the firm told the newspaper that although there is no immediate danger, long-range projections indicate the rates charged employers participating in workmen's compensation may be too low.

The audit was submitted in July to the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, but has never made public.

David B. Godfrey, deputy administrator of the bureau, said the audit was inadequate and incorrect. He accused the auditors of mixing 1973 trends into an audit, which ended in 1972.

Judge fines two persons

A Washington C.H. woman and a Washington C.H. man were both found guilty of assault by Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner during Thursday afternoon's court session.

Donald M. McRobie, 28, of 822 E. Paint St., was arrested by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department under a private warrant for assault which occurred Oct. 4. McRobie plead guilty to the charge and was fined $50 and court costs by Judge Winegardner.

Martha R. Creech, 27, of 611 E. Market St., was arrested by Washington C.H. police and charged with assault under a private warrant. The incident occurred Oct. 3. Judge Winegardner fined Ms. Creech $50 and court costs also.
